Reflections as shown through the eyes of Lincoln High students focused attention on a busy year's schedule. We have designed these pages to act as mirrors for the purpose of recapturing many memorable occasions.

Our staff has recorded how faculty, parents and community provided us with the basic materials for our own personal achievement and complete development. With this combined help, we have tried to show that we are products of our own environment.

THE EDITOR

Many useful hours were spent in our school library supplementing the class routine.
Its wide selection of informative material proved more than adequate for our needs.
Sofia, K. Johnston, G. Santillo, Joyce Prokop, Buner.

Through the eyes of the student the classroom was the means through which we might obtain the education that will determine our success in life.

While the teacher viewed her class as an opportunity through which she might not only share her knowledge, but also broaden her experience.
Mrs. Brooks and Spanish II class.

REFLECTIONS OF LEARNING

A dire need for students dedicated to the cause of maintaining a free world intensified our purpose for learning. We became aware of the responsibilities that the future will place on our shoulders and consequently began each day with a renewed desire to conquer academic problems.

The schedule was routine but the courses of study offered a variety of interests. The accomplishments of Shakespeare, Galileo, and Pythagorus broadened our concept of life. Our basic courses were supplemented by others which lent themselves to cultural development. These reflections found us prepared and eager to fulfill the aspirations of a wanting world.

Mom and Dad took advantage of National Education Week by visiting our school and meeting our teachers.

Proud parents flocked to plays and concerts to enjoy the results of extracurricular productions.

IMAGES OF PARENTAL INTEREST

In every phase of school life, we were supported and encouraged by our parents. The annual Parents' Night afforded them an ideal opportunity to meet our teachers and to discuss our progress. Through this brief relationship, both were better able to aid us in the process of learning.

Eagerly our parents encouraged interest in sports and proudly they supported each segment of our athletic program. This same enthusiasm was displayed for plays, concerts, and the numerous other events that were so special to us. The realization that we must recognize worldly responsibilities, frightening as they seemed, could only be accepted with our knowledge of parental backing.

There was no parallel to the interest and support displayed by these typical parents as they followed our athletic teams to victory.

MIRRORING THE COMMUNITY

The community supplemented the school in providing additional facilities for our education. Conveniently located, the public library willingly co-operated in supplying further resources for study. The local newspaper promoted student affairs and kept the public abreast with school functions.

Several civic organizations helped sponsor their counterparts in clubs at the high school level, such as Key Club, Tri-Hi-Y, and Hi-Y. By generous contributions, the entire community furnished our athletes an opportunity to attend football camp. The annual "After-Prom Party" highlighted the contributions of the citizens of Ellwood City to the students of Lincoln High school. An elaborate summer recreational program, made possible by the joint efforts of school and town, occupied our leisure time. These functions symbolized the effectiveness of such co-operation.

The public librarian was always willing to assist students seeking the benefits of more detailed study.

M. Stiles, M. Brownstein, Mrs. Phyllis Court.

Dr. Helling, a long time servant and friend of the school and community, became an honorary letterman of the Lincoln High Blue Band.
Mr. Weinstein, Dr. Helling.

One of our noted city fathers took advantage of the choir's Christmas Party to commend the choirs on their outstanding work.
Larry Follett, B. McDanel, Hilliard, Mr. R. J. Schill.

The annual Jaycee's "Voice of Democracy" contest was one of the many instances in which outstanding students were recognized by local organizations.
Mr. Robert Stahl, Shirley, Mr. Thomas Danner.

Mr. Brown thanked a representative of the After-Prom Committee for all the time and effort spent in our behalf.
K. McConahy, Crangi, Mr. Joseph Ferrara, Mr. Weinstein, Menold, Mr. Brown, W. Stiles.

The Senior boys displayed excellent taste in choosing Lynda Harris as our Homecoming Queen.

Neatness and personal appearance were the standards by which Carol Rocco was judged Good Grooming Queen.

A FOCUS ON ACTIVITIES

To compensate for our scholastic endeavors, Lincoln High provided an elaborate extracurricular program. Everyone was offered an opportunity to develop his individual interests. Through club functions, the gregarious student had little difficulty in finding an outlet for his personality. The athletically inclined found enjoyment and recognition in the diversified sports program. Thespians discovered the value of dramatics in their many stage productions, and musical talents unfolded in band and choral concerts. Thus, we realized that school was not only a nucleus of learning but also a center of enjoyment.

"Will you sign my yearbook?" was a familiar question during the last week of May.

PICTURING GUIDANCE

Reflections of the past school year revealed our teachers willingly assisting us in extracurricular activities. Our experiences were enriched by their expert guidance. We discovered them to be as human as ourselves and enjoyed their company in a more personal atmosphere than the classroom afforded. After-school hours found students and faculty working together on various clubs and class projects, athletics, and school publications. We gratefully recognized that their efforts formed the cornerstone of our entire learning process.

Mr. Latimer sparked the magazine campaign with a promise of color in this year's Ellwoodian.

Under proficient guidance the functioning

MR. J. ELLIS BELL—B. S., Westminster College; M. A., Columbia University; Superintendent of Schools.

MR. JOHN SHEPLEY—B. S., Edinboro State Teachers College; M. Litt., University of Pittsburgh; Principal of Lincoln High School.

Mr. J. Ellis Bell, Superintendent of the Ellwood City Area Joint School District, celebrated his twentieth anniversary as superintendent. March 1, 1958, marked the beginning of his twenty-first year. He was officially elected for another term. A teacher-sponsored reception was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Bell.

Mr. John Shepley, Principal of Lincoln High School, was always near and ready when members of the faculty or student body had a problem. His sincere interest and keen sense of humor made him a friend to all. Mr. Shepley served as Vice-President of the new Mid-Western Athletic Conference during the 1957-1958 season.

of our school was appropriately managed.

Mr. Charles Barnhart, Director of Curriculum, was constantly striving to improve the learning procedure in the system. His main duty was to see that the grade levels throughout the district were the same in their curriculum. This gave every student an equal background when they entered high school.

Mr. Ralph Shaffer, Assistant Principal, was often seen performing his various duties throughout the Lincoln building. He was in charge of the scheduling and assignment of classes. Mr. Shaffer also efficiently distributed classroom supplies. One of his more unique duties was the reading of special announcements in his own inimitable style.

MR. CHARLES BARNHART—B. S., Slipperry Rock State Teachers College; M. Ed., University of Pittsburgh; Supervisor of Instruction. MR. RALPH SHAFFER—B. A., Ohio Northern University; M. Litt., University of Pittsburgh; American history; Assistant Principal.

School Board and Superintendent Bell spent many hours formulating regulations, drawing up the yearly budget, securing a competent teaching force and making future plans. Signing the documents for these necessities was a common occurrence.
Mrs. Celeste LaBate, Mr. J. Ellis Bell, Mrs. Anna Brewer, Mr. Cliff Johnson, Mr. Howard Blank.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

The betterment of the school and community was reflected by the actions of the 1957-1958 Ellwood City Area Joint School Board. The board adopted plans to expand Lincoln High School within the next three years. Included in the plans were additional class rooms, a new gymnasium, a modern cafeteria, enlarged band and choral rooms, and a new library. They felt that by acting immediately they would give the school its much needed room and offer additional employment to the men of the community.

The past year found the Ellwood City Area Joint Board very busy. They opened the beautiful new West End School, gave the Ellport School a new heating system, and initiated kindergartens and dental examinations in the Ellport, Perry and Wayne Township Schools.

Looking ahead to next year, the school board hopes to obtain a speech therapist who will work with the handicapped students of the area.

Laying a foundation for a college education

ANDREW BODENSKY — B. S., Indiana State Teachers College; M. Ed., Pennsylvania State University; art, advanced crafts; co-sponsored Art Club.

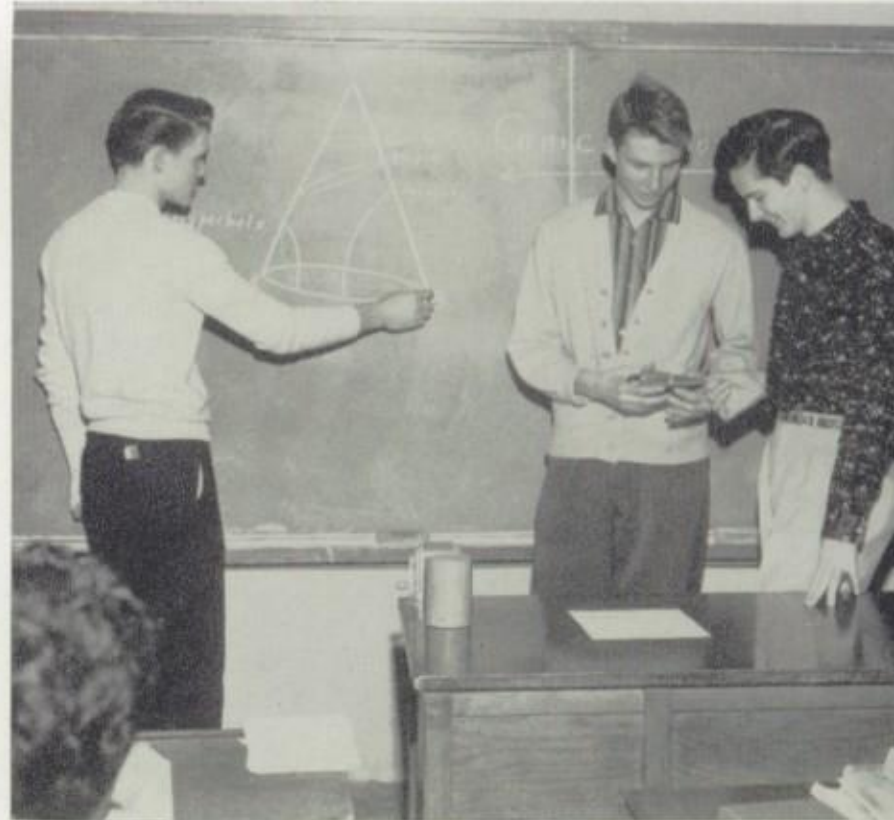

EUGENE BOSCHINI — B. S., Clarion State Teachers College; civics, geography.

MARIAN BROOKS — B. A., Geneva College; Spanish; sponsored Spanish Club.

VICTOR BROWN—B. A., M. Ed., University of Florida; English; sponsored Senior Class.

Mathematics was an essential part of each academic student's schedule. The individual was required to apply himself in order to gain a solid foundation for advanced mathematics. The students realized the value of algebra, plane geometry, trigonometry and solid geometry, which prepared them for more advanced work.

Bates, J. Porter, Charles Ruby.

A thorough study of vocabulary and world literature was undertaken by the senior English classes. Attempts at writing original verses of poetry gave each student a chance for individual expression. The play "Macbeth" concluded the three years' study program of Shakespearean drama.

V. Guthrie, K. Pishioneri, A. Oliastro, N. Lagana.

CHARLOTTE CHAMBERS—B. A., Muskingum College; history.

ESTHER CHARLES—B. S., Grove City College; typing exploratory, typing, penmanship and spelling.

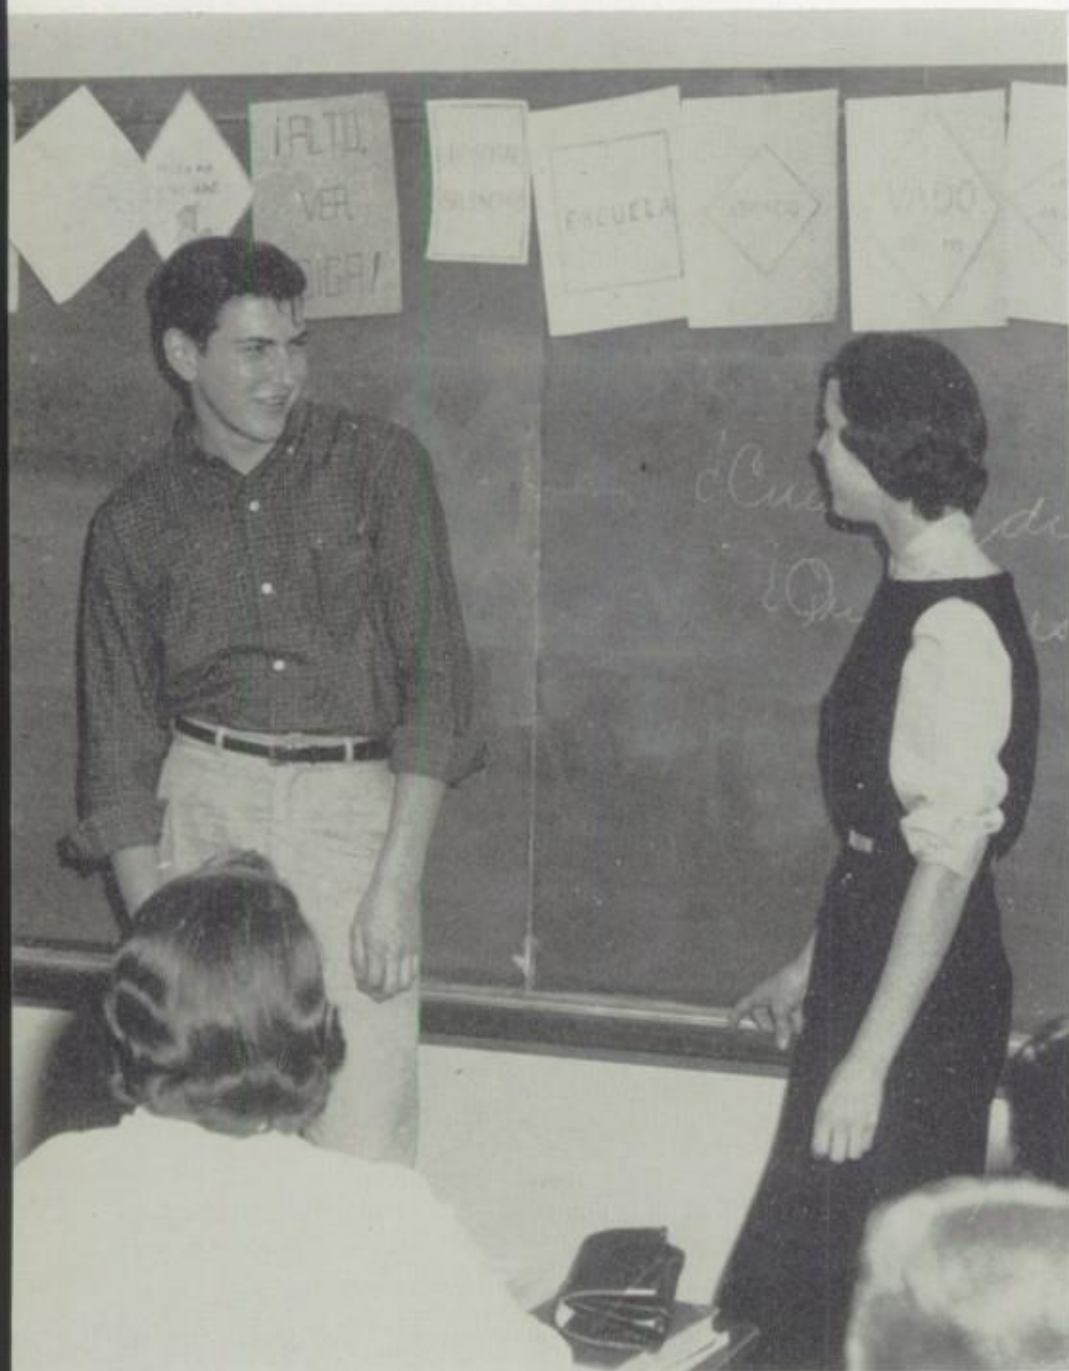

With the nearness of space travel and the technological advances in medicine, students became more conscious of the science field. Attempting to instill the desires for further learning, the science department presented a varied program of study. A sampling of scientific knowledge was presented to the ninth graders in their general science course. Sophomores became more aware of the world of living things through the biology course. Minute organisms, anatomy studies, and plant structures created for them a new interest in their environment.

Stepping into the mechanics of science, future physicists studied the changes of energy and its conservation. Through the study of chemistry senior students delved deeper into the structure of matter and the applications of its properties. Practical science and practical chemistry were offered to those students who did not wish to indulge in a more minute study of the sciences.

J. Biordi, Kracht, P. Strohl, D. Biordi, Hines, J. Coblentz.

An opportunity to acquire a cultural polish

Attempting to master a foreign language, many students pursued courses in French, Spanish, or Latin. These languages helped them to understand more clearly the peoples of foreign nations. "The Count of Monte Cristo" was one of the novels translated by the French classes. In Spanish class, frequent conversations were given to help students speak this language more fluently. Latin, the basis of all romance languages, presented ancient mythical tales.

D. Spielvogel, C. Schuller.

An American government panel on the topic of juvenile delinquency, was a typical example of the social studies curriculum. Reflections of past and present problems provided an interesting outlet for student theories. The department's main objective was concern for the development of altruistic citizens. The rudiments of the social studies field originated in Freshman civics classes. World history and American history augmented the understanding of world issues.

LARUE CRAIG—B. A., M. Ed., University of Pittsburgh; guidance counselor; sponsored student councils.

was offered by the scholastic curriculum.

American government classes presented to the Seniors the mechanics of a democratic nation. A concept of our environmental problems was obtained through the studies of sociology and psychology. Upon completion of these courses, students departed as more mature individuals.

Poholsky, Hooker.

Illustrating "The House of Seven Gables" in many diversified ways was an achievement of the junior English classes. Various projects, such as models of the house and portraits of the characters, were displayed in the classrooms.

Another important literary classic analyzed by the Juniors was the tragedy "Hamlet" by William Shakespeare. The climax of this study was a field trip to Westminster College to see their production of the play. Grammatical rules and works in American literature were also segments of the curriculum in the junior English course.

Joanna Pratt, Shepherd, Meddoff, K. Hoover.

ABIGAIL CRESSWELL—B. A., Chatham College; English.

KATHERINE DICERBO—B. A., Geneva College; English, spelling; sponsored Tri-Hi-Y.

In office practice class, the students were required to apply all their basic secretarial knowledge. The operation of various types of important machines, such as calculators and duplicating machines, was the highlight of the course. Filing and mailing procedures were presented as essentials to the smooth functioning of today's modern offices.
P. Smilek, E. Shaffer.

Future office workers and college students found typing an indispensable subject in their curriculum. These students worked diligently to learn the keyboard and care of the typewriter. After being taught how to manipulate with speed and accuracy, they were given detailed manuscripts and tabulations to type. In Typing II class, future typists learned the complex techniques of a modern office. They were aided by the installment of some new electric typewriters.

B. Taylor, B. Weimer, Wallower, Joyce Prokop, L. Reilley, Miss Sovalo, Androla.

The learning of shorthand characters was an important step in the development of efficient secretaries. After memorizing these characters, the students applied them through the use of dictation until they acquired speed. Transcribing their shorthand notes into mailable letters was the final step of this course.
Grenville, Mehaffay, Joan Condell, P. Fogel, Barbara Doak, Miss Sovalo.

Upon stepping into bookkeeping class, one could well imagine by the busy atmosphere that he was in a large accounting office. Practical learning was applied and future accountants were taught both elementary and advanced procedures in maintaining accurate records. Through actual business forms, students acquainted themselves with fundamental office routines.
Hollinback, L. Elmquist, Charles Brown, G. Bender, L. Reilley.

Economics was the scientific study of supply and demand and the complications that arise from man's efforts to satisfy his wants. In addition, students learned to clearly visualize both domestic and international problems.

MARY LARITZ—B. A., Geneva College; history.

The reflectors of Lincoln High were the students with their brushes and palettes. They truly captured the school through the eyes of young artists. In ninth grade, all students were trained in the elementary forms of art. Advanced art offered the students the opportunity to portray many of their original motifs.

*Zikeli, P. Prinzi, Braun, Nelson,
I. Strohecker, Best, P. Wilson.*

MUSIC

A cultural background of the great music and composers of the world was offered in the music curriculum. This study was presented twice weekly to the ninth grade students who were not in band or choral work. The course attempted to instill in them a deeper appreciation for classical music.

WILLIAM LATIMER — B. A., Geneva College; English; co-sponsored Ellwoodian.

MARJORIE LOSTETTER—B. A., Westminster College; speech, history; sponsored Senior Dramatic Club.

DOMINICK MAGNIFICO—B. S., Edinboro State Teachers College; M. S. in Ed., Westminster College; general science, biology; assistant junior high basketball coach.

CAROL ANN MCCANDLESS — R. N., Jameson Memorial School of Nursing; Slippery Rock State Teachers College; assistant school nurse.

In preparation for skilled trades, many boys focused their attention on the study of metal craft and wood craft. An introduction to these courses taught the boys the fundamentals necessary to operate the machinery. In connection with this, safety measures were emphasized. In elective advanced shop courses the students proceeded further into this field and produced many worthwhile projects.

W. Bailey, Michael Corrigan, Raymond Nye.

As a basis for future work in engineering, blueprinting was an initiation into the mechanical drawing course. Drawing objects in their prospective degree proved to be interesting and challenging.

Many upperclass boys chose an advanced course in mechanical drawing to develop their individual skills. Through their application, the students learned the basic principles of design.

Standing—T. Cerelli, N. Luca, J. Porter, Kracht.
Seated—Hollerman, D. Weisz.

Domestic and industrial arts augmented new

A subject of importance to future homemakers was the domestic art of sewing. As a required subject for girls in eighth and ninth grades, sewing presented a new useful course. Throughout the year the girls were kept busy cutting patterns, making clothes, and modeling their creations.

Those who wished to perfect the basic fundamentals were offered an advanced course in sewing. These students were then able to apply their skills to make attractive clothes for personal use.

Schlemmer, M. Wiley, Mrs. Bamford, D. Sullivan, Shaklee, Jean Bash, V. Allen.

Arousing the interest of future homemakers, the domestic art classes taught the preparation and cooking of food. Basic essentials were not forgotten as the girls learned the most minute details of the culinary art.

outlooks on life for many ambitious students.

Nutrition served as an introduction to the planning of well-balanced meals. Proper diets were stressed to keep future families fit and healthy.

Advanced cooking offered a chance to experiment with and perfect new recipes. Here the girls learned the latest techniques in the field of cooking. The modern kitchen enabled students to learn the operation of up-to-date appliances.

Skill, patience, and originality were three necessities for the students in craft class. Here the imaginative mind was free to create. Every student in eighth and ninth grade received a chance to learn proper techniques in plastics, metals, and leather.

Flumer, Caplan, Joseph Miller.

Improved personal appearance was a result

GEORGE PLUNKETT — B. S., Allegheny College; D. D. S., University of Pittsburgh; school dentist.

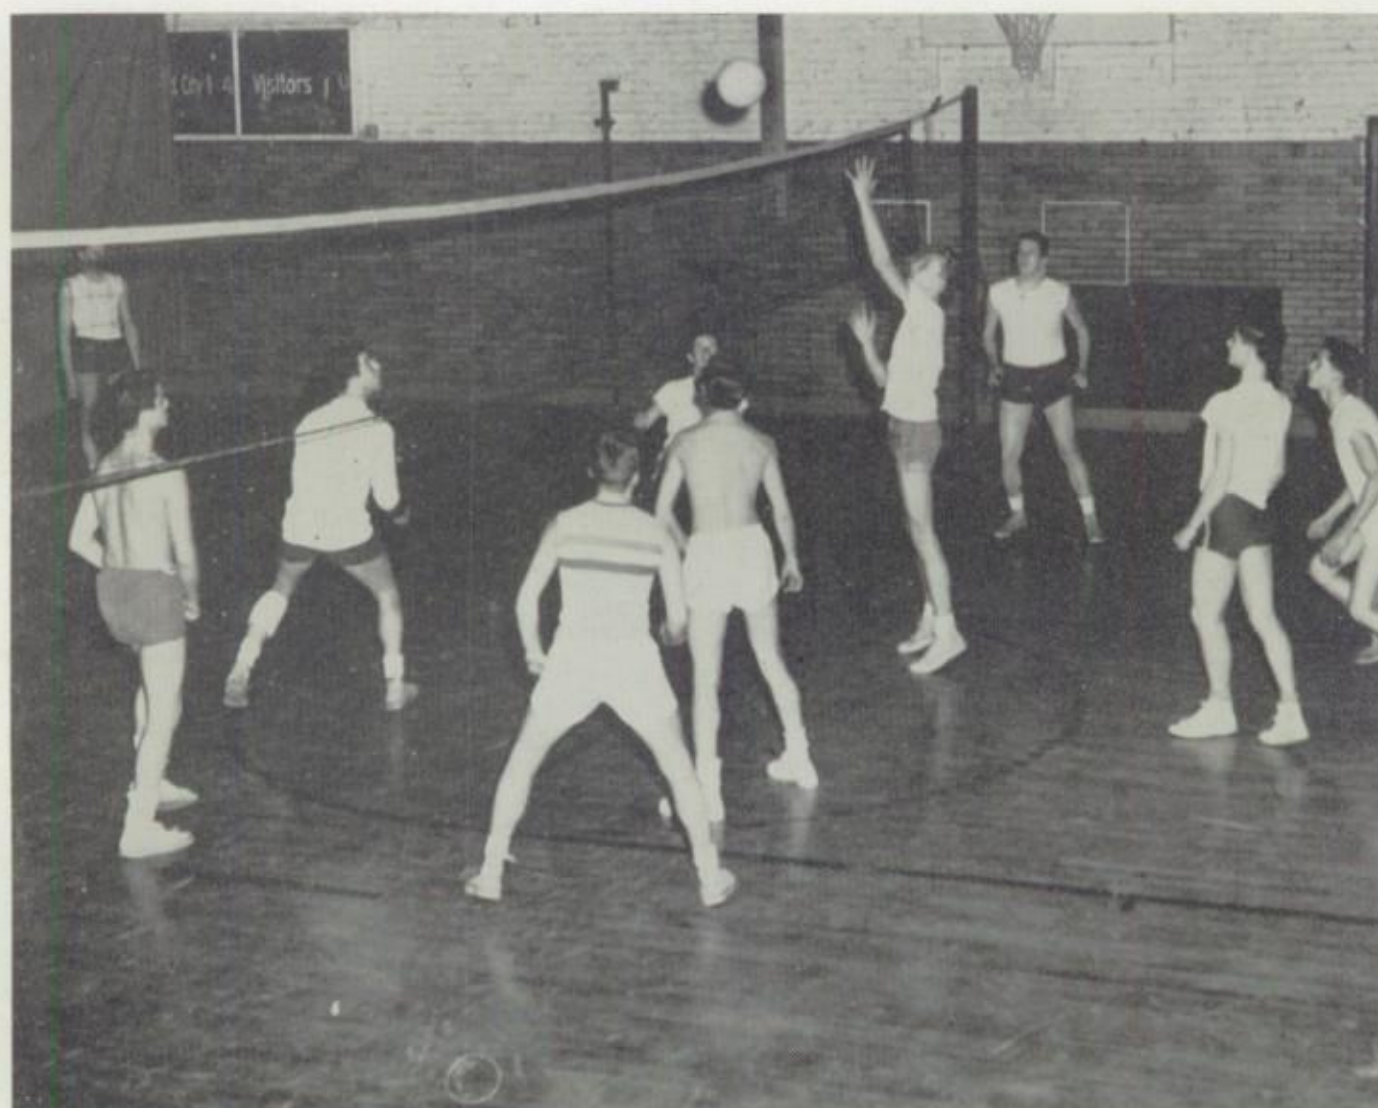

JOHN RASCHELLA — B. S., Geneva College; M. Ed., University of Pittsburgh; general science, psychology; co-sponsored Hi-Y.

GEORGE REESE—B. A., Geneva College; civics; sponsored Dance Committee.

ROSE MARIE REID—B. A., Mount Mercy College; M. Ed., University of Pittsburgh algebra, general mathematics.

Physical conditioning and mental alertness were two goals of the boys' gym classes. Attempting to stimulate a desire for physical fitness, the boys were required to participate in many dexterous drills. To develop a well co-ordinated body, the students were often seen performing difficult feats of skill on the parallel bars and other various gymnastic apparatus. Wrestling and boxing were used as a means of obtaining strength and stamina. This also gave the boys the opportunity to engage in body control. In efforts to enjoy the outdoor activities during early fall and late spring, the boys took part in football, soccer, and softball.

Rounding all these activities into two periods per week presented a problem to the instructor, but the time obstacle being overcome, the boys' gym classes provided a varied program.

ROSE SOVALO—B. S., Geneva College; shorthand, typing, typing exploratory.

From the tiniest cell to the most complicated system, Junior boys were fascinated with the intricacies of the human body. The course centered its attention on the application of personal hygiene.
Stevenson, Pitrelli.

Girls' health classes taught human anatomy and hygiene to all eleventh grade girls. Lectures, discussions, movies and physical exercises made a very important subject both varied and interesting.
McCurdy, A. Carney, Courson, B. Nagel.

The girls' gym classes stimulated the development of mental and physical alertness. The girls attended classes twice weekly and enjoyed competitive teams in volleyball and basketball. As an added activity, exercise and balance tests were given to these students. The heights and weights of the girls were taken every six weeks and accurately marked on a periodical growth chart. When the weather permitted, girls were able to play mushball outdoors. These athletics enabled them to gain poise and self-confidence.

ECHO STAFF

The student newspaper edited monthly by the Lincoln High Echo staff can be described as a nucleus of communication reaching all corners of a news-conscious school. Published in co-operation with the Ellwood City Ledger, the Echo spotlighted all news-worthy events connected with an active student body.

The reporters were chosen on a competitive basis, each entering a theme judged for thought and originality. Following the selection of the staff, a campaign was held to encourage students to subscribe.

The objective of the Echo staff was an earnest endeavor to attain resourceful literary expression. Each edition of our school paper

The Echo has always been known for its spirited editorials, vivid portrayals of personalities, and stimulating accounts of important school activities. The staff reporters have again proved their reliability in issuing a paper that was worthy of Lincoln High School.

ELLWOODIAN STAFF

The 1958 Ellwoodian staff can very adequately be likened to an empty-handed magician pulling a rabbit from his hat. Imbued with a profound desire for perfection this group, from comparatively nothing, has pulled from its intellectual resources a school book thought to parallel the best.

These students willingly rendered all available time in a sincere effort to realize a hard-earned goal. To achieve this goal, the Senior Class emerged as a unit with one ultimate aspiration, the sale of magazines. Incited by the promise of a larger and more colorful book, these Seniors gave all to induce the public to promote so deserving a cause. The final publication of the yearbook has proven beyond all doubt the abilities of the Ellwoodian staff.

SENIOR STUDENT COUNCIL

Senior Student Council began an eventful year with the sale of football programs to purchase sweaters for a deserving football team. As in the past, this worthy organization undertook the project of providing for several needy families during the Christmas season. Congratulatory-O-Grams were sent for meritorious achievements to outstanding students during the year by an acknowledgment committee.

American Education Week was celebrated by open house with Student Council members ushering. Hall monitors were adequately placed to enable visitors to obtain directions throughout the school. Student Council sponsored the annual talent assembly in February.

Meeting with representatives from other schools at the state and district conventions taught our school new techniques of student government. A committee was established to decorate for the After-Prom Party. New Reserve and Varsity Cheerleaders were chosen by a committee of Student Council members. Other worthy projects and drives were carried on for the improvement of our school.

sound citizenship and united achievements.

JUNIOR STUDENT COUNCIL

The qualities of leadership and ability were necessary assets of the students belonging to Junior Student Council. Part of the success of Parents' Night can be attributed to the co-operation of the members who served as ushers.

This group initiated a new program of recognition by naming outstanding boys and girls "Junior High Student of the Month." In accordance with this, junior high football players were honored at a post-season banquet. With typical generosity, each home room contributed to the purchase of gifts for a needy family at Christmas.

Capable members made signs that were placed in the halls of the school warning of dangerous corners and encouraging orderly procedure to classes. An August orientation program for the benefit of new Freshman students was also planned. The selection of junior high cheerleaders completed a busy, but successful year.

Shoes, eyeglasses, wallets, combs, toothbrushes . . . name it, and the Lost and Found Committee probably had it. Grateful students could then retrieve their mislaid articles at the counter in the principal's office.

SENIOR DRAMATIC CLUB

The National Thespian Troupe Number 507 strove to bring forth dramatic characteristics among its members. This group composed of Juniors and Seniors garnered a vast following in their dramatic exploits. The most important undertaking of the club was the presentations of their annual play. The result of numerous practices of the cast was a delightful three-act comedy entitled "Blithe Spirit."

Thanksgiving is a time when all should be unselfish, and so the Senior Dramatic Club members donated a dinner to a needy family.

The club members journeyed to Geneva College at Beaver Falls as guests of the college's Frill and Daggar Society. There they witnessed two dramatic presentations.

The entire student body became acquainted with the organization as the voices of the members read the Bible each morning over the public address system. Each assembly was adequately introduced by one of these dramatic-minded students. A thrilling year was completed by the presentation of thespian letters to those deserving members at the annual banquet in May.

Each year the Senior members of Dramatic Club participated in an impressive initiation ceremony on the stage, a popular "playground!"

JUNIOR DRAMATIC CLUB

For those ninth and tenth grade students interested in dramatics, the Junior Dramatic Club added an extra tinge of excitement. Candidates were chosen by the officers on the basis of their presentation of a three-minute memorized monologue. Then an initiation was held to introduce new Freshman members to the club functions.

The activities for the monthly meetings were planned by the officers at the executive meetings. Blue-and-white felt footballs sold by the members advocated school spirit. A bake sale was also held in February to obtain funds for the annual banquet.

Highlighting the several plays presented by this group was a one-act presentation at an April assembly with a cast composed entirely of Sophomores. A spaghetti dinner at Reinheimer's Tea Room provided the main social affair for the winter.

Freshmen members honored the Sophomores at the annual banquet held in May. New officers were initiated and thespian letters were presented to those Sophomores who received the necessary number of points. This point system is based on the member's participation in assemblies and committees, and also his attendance record.

SENIOR TRI-HI-Y

The creation of high standards of Christian character for home, school, and community was the primary objective of each girl participating in Tri-Hi-Y. A few outstanding activities were a flower demonstration, a book review by Mrs. Anderson, and a fashion show.

The main event of the year came in April when these girls were hostesses to the Central-West District Convention. Mrs. Marion Foster Smith, a prominent authoress and poetess, was the speaker for this three-day convention.

doctrines taught by the Tri-Hi-Y clubs.

JUNIOR TRI-HI-Y

Equally busy in Lincoln High was the younger sister club. Having started their year with a "get-acquainted" wiener roast in Ewing Park, the Junior Tri-Hi-Y Club remained enthusiastic and co-operative in all activities that followed. They assisted the Senior Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y clubs in preparing for their annual dance, "Fall Fantasy."

One of the bimonthly meetings of this organization featured six Senior boys who gave their opinions on date etiquette. This interesting panel was moderated by Miss Craig.

In co-operation with their older counterpart, Christmas caroling, a "March of Dimes" campaign, and contributions of food to needy families were some of their worth-while projects which successfully demonstrated the ideals pursued by these civic-minded groups.

Tri-Hi-Y girls roasted their wieners and toasted their faces as they tried to get something to eat at one of their first club meetings in Ewing Park.

HI-Y CLUB

The Hi-Y organization was composed of a group of fifty-four male students, all of whom were inexorable in making this year's club a successful one. These boys were seeking Christian ideals for themselves. Their slogan this year as in previous years has been "To create, maintain and extend throughout the home, school, and community high standards of Christian character." They, indeed, lived up to every aspect of their motto.

The Hi-Y boys kept the famished crowd well fed at both football and basketball games this year. Selling potato chips, peanuts, hot dogs, and klondikes proved quite profitable and helped to finance the year's activities. Other tasks which they performed included giving money to charitable organizations and sponsoring a combined dance with the Tri-Hi-Y called, "Fall Fantasy."

Y-TEENS

Fellowship and tolerance made the Y-Teens an organization committed to useful service. The Y-Teens started their year with a wiener roast; the "Mother and Daughter Tea" was also a highlight of the club's functioning year. At Christmas the needy were not forgotten; a "Tutti-Fruitti Dance" was held at the Elks, the admission being canned goods. Caroling also brought cheer to those who were ill during the holidays.

All the members of the club were invited to display their Christmas finery at an exceptionally interesting fashion show, "Fashions Bring Interest." Their final moment of anticipation arrived the night of May 5 after they had anxiously awaited their dance of the year, "Around the World."

King Merriment reigned high at the start of the Christmas season as the Y-Teens held their charity dance at the Elks' hall. The "Tutti-Fruitti" funds gave the King a chance to enter the home of a needy family on Christmas Day.

SPANISH CLUB

A typically industrious organization of Lincoln High School was the Spanish Club. This club was busily occupied with the study of Latin American culture. It began its year with the initiation of new members and a dialogue given by two Senior members. The Juniors also took part by reciting in Spanish.

A play given by both Juniors and Seniors was an enjoyable Christmas project of the club, and this meeting was concluded appropriately with the singing of Spanish Christmas carols.

The main event of the year was an all school "Sadie Hawkins" dance which was held by the Spanish and French Clubs. This active group ended the year with its annual Senior dinner at the Saxon Club.

A traditional Spanish Christmas party with the breaking of "La Pinata" was a night long to be remembered by "los estudiantes de Espanol."

FRENCH CLUB

The activities of French Club provided its members with several enjoyable and fun-filled evenings. Principally a social group, all French students were eligible for membership.

For the first meeting held in October, the members gathered in the music room. Highlighting this session was the singing of several popular songs in French. A knowledge of French words was the chief requirement for the second meeting, as bingo was played in the French version. In January many of the ambitious girls in this group had the opportunity to display their homemaking abilities. Preceding the regular business meeting, they prepared a spaghetti dinner in the cooking room for the members.

In May, a dinner was held to honor Senior members. Installation of officers was the highlight of this gathering.

Capable Leadership

KEY CLUB

The Key Club, an organization with capable leadership and a vivid sense of responsibility, took an active part in the life of Lincoln High School. Each week two Key Club members were entertained at the dinner meeting of their sponsor, the Ellwood City Kiwanis Club. At the beginning of the year, the club conducted an informative census of all pre-school age children in the Ellwood City area. The boys ushered for the choir concerts as well as numerous events occurring during the sports season. Members of the club also sold refreshments at the football and basketball games.

Participation in the assembly sponsored by the Senior Student Council was another project of this able group. They also presented their own assembly on the ninth of April. Regular bimonthly meetings provided diversified entertainment for every member who attended. The year was brought to a grand finale with the success of its annual May dinner.

THE VARSITY CLUB

Starting its second year, the Varsity Club proved to be one of the most active organizations of Lincoln High. Limited to boys who have earned letters in varsity sports, this club endeavored to promote both interscholastic and intramural athletics.

The sale of "victory tags" during the football season constituted the majority of the funds used to purchase a new Whirlpool bath for the athletic department. These boys also arranged for busses to transport basketball fans to out-of-town games. A basketball tournament between home rooms was sponsored later in the year. Each member has aided in the growth and success of this club by individual effort as well as united teamwork.

HISTORY CLUB

The enthusiastic participation of each member of History Club contributed to the achievements enjoyed by this organization. Although it boasted a large membership, nevertheless its projects were carried out effectively and co-operatively.

To begin a well-planned year a board of directors was chosen, its purpose being to plan entertainment for future meetings. This governing body consisted of club officers and a Sophomore, Junior, and Senior member. The satisfaction of the members verified the good judgment employed in selecting these representatives.

Many activities of varied interests were a part of the History Club's schedule. Among these were the fixing of the victory bell and the clearing of the courtyard. It also sponsored a school "pep hop" which was held in the gym. The main venture of the year was a banquet held in November at the First Presbyterian Church.

life of both the school and the community.

ART CLUB

The Art Club, composed of future "Rembrandts," required demonstrations of artistic abilities for membership. This talented group completed several valuable projects. Blue-and-white E. C. H. S. pennants, painted by the members, were sold during football season. Ghosts, goblins, and pumpkins pictured on the downtown store windows at Halloween were designed and painted by these ambitious students. A prize was awarded for the most colorful and original painting. This benevolent group did not forget the needy at Christmas. When the Junior Women's Club requested the organization's help in painting "go-to-church slogans," they willingly undertook the project.

Business meetings were conducted bimonthly in the art room. At various meetings, speakers were present to discuss several phases of art. Attending special lessons sponsored by the Ellwood City Art Club, the members learned correct techniques of painting. The main social event of this club was a wiener roast held in Ewing Park in the fall.

Club members decorated the store windows for the Halloween season. This gave talented members a way to display their know-how.

LIBRARY STAFF

Just as books are essential to learning, so a library staff is necessary for the upkeep of a library. This group of industrious girls strove to make our school library helpful, orderly, and convenient. Donating at least forty-five minutes of her time daily, each girl aided our librarian in collecting overdue books, repairing those which were damaged, and cleaning the shelves.

TELEPHONE CREW

That pleasant voice which greeted you when you dialed the number of one of Ellwood City's Public Schools probably belonged to one of the six girls of the telephone crew. These cheerful girls were assigned the responsibility of handling the switchboard which was located in the superintendent's office at the high school. Each girl volunteered at least one study hall each day for this serviceable function.

TICKET CREW

Members of the ticket crew were charged with the responsibility of numbering the reserved seats for all performances in the school auditorium. Accuracy was their watchword and the services they gave so cheerfully were really appreciated by the dramatic and music organizations. The girls of the crew enjoyed their work and especially remembered was the day in April when they prepared for the evening production of the Air Force Band. Miss Wooster was the supervisor of this group.

OFFICE CREW

An industrious group of senior high students comprised the versatile office crew. These boys and girls assisted the regular office staff in various jobs; included were the filing of reference cards, the typing and delivering of absentee sheets, the answering of the telephone, and other miscellaneous errands. By learning to manipulate various pieces of office equipment, such as the mimeograph and adding machines, these students displayed their worthiness and abilities to the school.

STAGE CREW

The stage crew was an organization of seven boys, who were outstanding in construction and mechanical abilities. These boys helped set up the necessary props for all events held on stage. Some of their various tasks consisted of properly arranging stage settings, manipulating the curtains and obtaining appropriate lighting effects for plays, concerts, and assemblies. Sound effects were provided when needed.

The crew was under the capable supervision of Mr. Williams who has had considerable experience in stage work. They were kept busy with numerous duties, but the boys found the work interesting. Although thanks were not often expressed, everyone was grateful for the services rendered by these boys.

SOUND CREW

All functions and activities were capably conveyed to the students of Lincoln High School as the members of the sound crew broadcasted each morning and noon. Meeting in the morning and afternoon before the tardy bell, this cheerful two-some assembled all announcements to be delivered.

The reading of devotions over the public address system was handled by the announcers when Dramatic Club members could not be present.

The members of the sound crew were chosen in their Sophomore year, the qualification being a pleasing and friendly voice. When unexpected news items had to be relayed during the course of the day, each commentator was willing to announce the report. These girls were to be commended, for their task was indispensable.

LUNCH CREW

A group of fine, hard-working girls aided the school each noon with the sale of milk. Each of these girls volunteered part of her lunch time for this service. An orderly system was arranged whereby the exact change was necessary for a purchase. The group minimized the common confusion by their efficient methods.

The girls were given complete charge in ordering both the chocolate and white milk. In this manner, the five students practiced the responsibilities necessary for good saleswomen. Miss Iva Jackson was the supervisor in charge of this project.

TRAFFIC CREW

Vigilance and constant alertness were the by words of the boys of Lincoln High School's miniature police force. Each boy on the traffic crew accepted his duties with a real sense of responsibility. They met outside the school at the end of every fourth and seventh period and supervised all traffic at the intersection of Crescent Avenue and Fifth Street. Under their direction an orderly and disciplined flow of traffic, both automotive and pedestrian, was maintained.

Security was assured to every Lincoln High student, as this crew of boys asserted firmness and dependability as primary safety factors. All who crossed at this well-guarded intersection felt the influence of organized traffic guidance and care.

LINCOLN HIGH SCHOOL BLUE BAND

The Lincoln High School Blue Band played a valuable part in school life this past year. Under the able leadership of Mr. Weinstein, the band participated in numerous activities. To many, the most memorable performances of the Blue Band were the pre-game and half-time shows during the football season. Approximately two weeks after the previous school year, the band began practicing for the coming season. Each individual practiced three hours a week under supervision plus many extra hours on his own.

Band officers determined the selections that were played at the annual band concert.

Then two weeks before beginning the 1957-58 school year, the entire band practiced six hours a day, five days a week. This practicing prepared them for the shows that followed. Some of the half-time programs were: "Around the World," based on the movie "Around the World in 80 Days," and "Round and Round" featuring the song of that title. During the pre-game performances, fancy routines were acted out by both the band and the majorettes. In addition to the football games, the Blue Band participated in various parades.

Mr. Weinstein, the able director of the Blue Band, conducted the "Star-Spangled Banner."

Clever formations by the band entertained

The Lincoln High School Blue Band displayed many formations at the half-time shows during football season. This Spanish hacienda helped illustrate the theme "Around the World."

Upon completing the marching season, the band held their annual banquet. On this occasion, Mr. Weinstein was presented a gift in appreciation for the interest he had shown the band members.

Immediately after Thanksgiving vacation, the band began rehearsing for the Spring Band Concert that was held on March 28, 1958. Each individual had to try out for the chair he would hold. This was done according to his ability as a musician. The rehearsals were held during the seventh period. Then approximately three weeks before the concert, a rigid practice schedule began. Every Tuesday and Thursday evening from seven to about ten o'clock, the band diligently practiced to improve their dynamics. The highlights of the concert included a trumpet trio entitled "Polka Dots;" a trombone trio, "Three Trombonists;" and "Trumpter's Lullaby," a trumpet solo. Other features were "Robin Hood," a descriptive song; "The Wizard of Oz," a number based on the movie of the same name; and "Them Basses," a fast-moving march featuring the bass section of the Blue Band. After the concert, members from the underclass began practicing for the next year's performances. With this, another successful year for the Blue Band was completed.

Radiating glamour, majorettes set the pace.

THE DRILL TEAM

The drill team was composed of Sophomore, Junior, and Senior girls. These girls had one main objective, and that was to enter the ranks of the majorettes. In order to succeed in fulfilling this requirement, they had to learn the fundamentals of high-stepping. They began to practice in the latter part of the school year for the coming football season. This tedious rehearsing continued throughout the summer. During the football season, these girls performed fancy routines with the band. The motto of these girls was that "the best is yet to come."

MAJORETTES

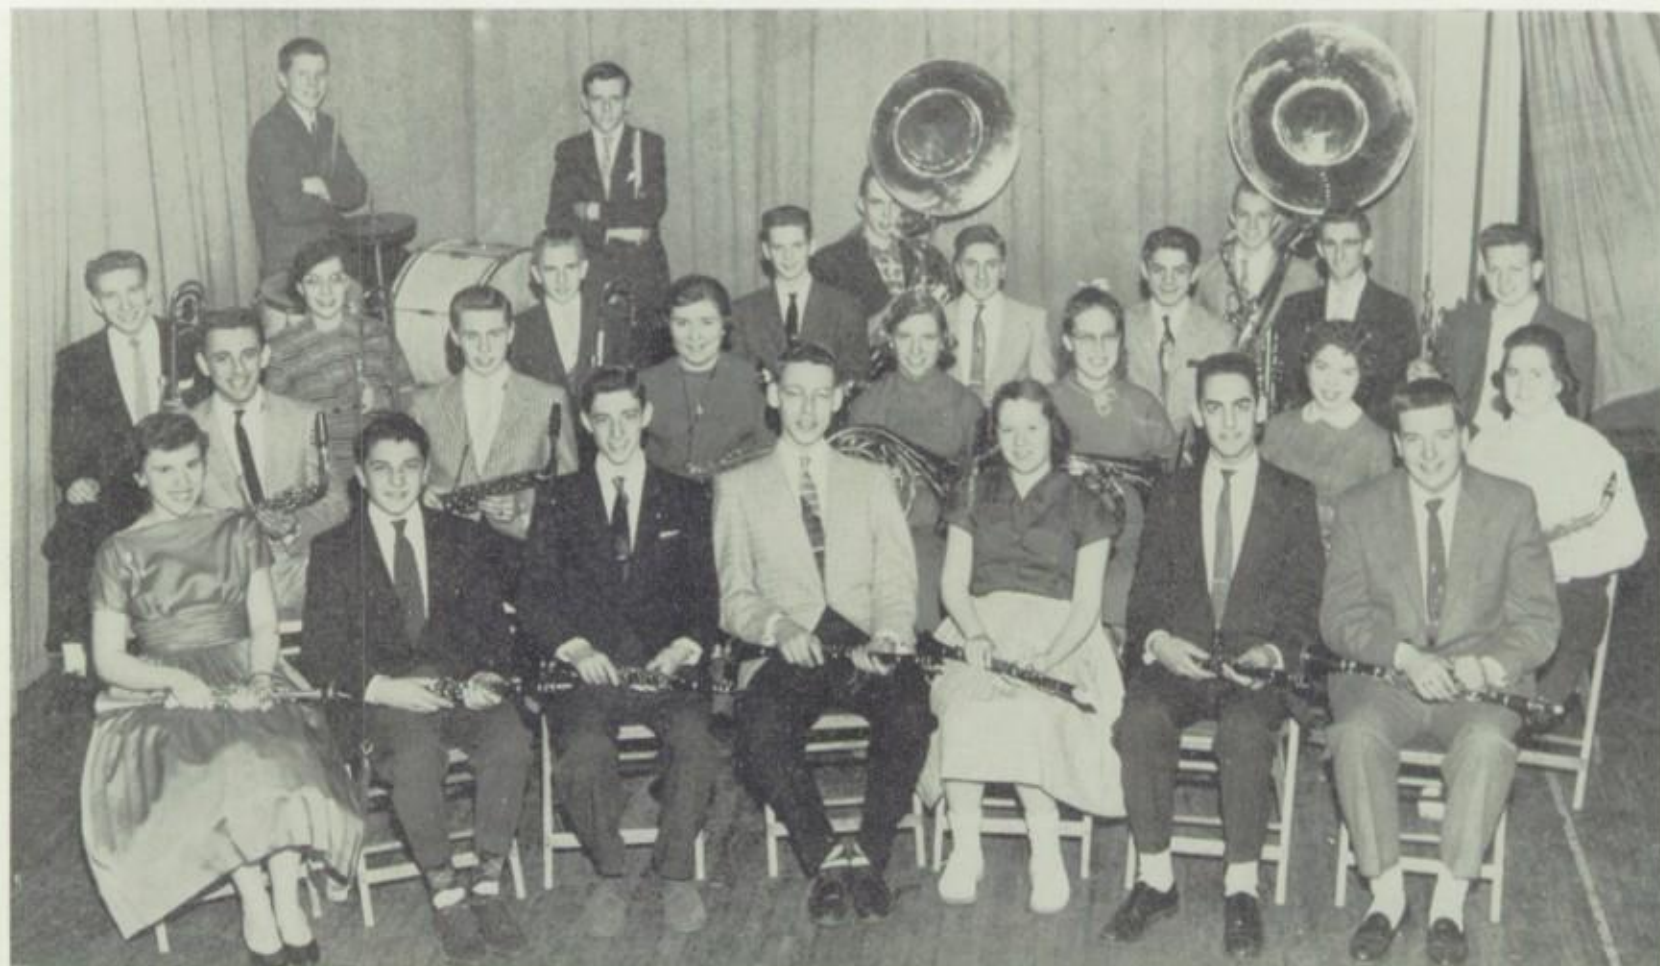

The goal of the drill team had finally been reached; they were now majorettes. The girls began early in the summer to prepare for the football season. Many long and tiring hours were spent at rehearsals. At these practice sessions, the girls prepared for the clever routines that they used in the half-time programs. About a month before school opened, they attended Oglebay Majorette Camp where they learned new steps and intricate maneuvers. They were rewarded for their perserverance and showmanship by the great ovations they received.

LINCOLNAIRES AND MID-WEST REPRESENTATIVES

The Lincolnares participated in many activities throughout the year. This group consisted of musicians who ranked high in playing ability. They played at various theatrical performances, pep rallies, and other school functions.

The Mid-West participants were selected to represent the school at the Mid-West Band Concert held in New Castle on April 19. While there, the members worked nine hours a day practicing for the coming performance.

MIXED CHOIR

The combination of male and female voices of the Mixed Choir added a note of variety to every performance. By far the largest choir, their renditions proved them to be an asset to all choral programs.

They offered a vast selection of carols for the Christmas Concert. The impressive "Angels We Have Heard On High," "Joy to the World," and "O Little Town of Bethlehem," helped relate the story of Christmas. A new arrangement of "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day" gave the choir a chance to demonstrate their superiority. The Mixed Choir added a deep religious feeling to the Spring Concert with the favorite selections "Old Rugged Cross" and "Joshua 'Fit the Battle of Jericho."

Feminine voices

The production number, "White Christmas," culminated the program of Senior Girls' Choir. Behind the scrim, the girls provided background music as Jim Hilliard and Frances Folino sang their duet. Paper snowflakes cushioned down upon the choir while they sang.

SENIOR GIRLS' CHOIR

The magic of feminine voices enhanced each performance of Senior Girls' Choir. With perfection as their motto, these Senior, Junior, and Sophomore girls worked hard to make each concert a success. All of their selections showed the perfect harmony they had mastered.

The Christmas Concert found this choir in a variety of moods. The traditional favorites "What Child is This" and "Hark the Herald Angels Sing" lent a religious atmosphere to the concert. The clever winter scene for "White Christmas" depicted a lighter mood.

The Senior Girls' Choir added a tinge of romance to the Spring Concert with their selection "Tenderly." They completed their appearance with "I Walked Today Where Jesus Walked."

JUNIOR GIRLS' CHOIR

Junior Girls' Choir was led by a new directress this year. With the help of Mrs. Backstrom, many members of the choir learned two and three-part music for the first time. All of their performances exhibited the sweet quality of young voices.

At the Christmas Concert the selections "Hark Now O Shepherds," "Come To the Manger," and "Go Tell It On the Mountain," vividly reflected the feeling of Christmas in the hearts of these girls.

The choir sang "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and "The Surrey With The Fringe On Top" for the Spring Concert. Lana Badger was soloist for the selection "How Deep Is the Ocean."

The soprano voice of Mary R. DeCaria enhanced the Junior Girls' Choir's interpretation of "Go Tell It On The Mountain" during the Christmas concert.

The robust voices of the boys' choir

BOYS' CHOIR

The exceptional quality of male voices gave Boys' Choir an added note of distinction. This large group of boys combined talents and time to develop the technique of blending their voices in perfect harmony.

A special group from Boys' Choir, the Lincoln Octet, contributed their abilities at each choral performance. "We Three Kings" was their selection for the Christmas Concert.

The boys sang the rhythmic "Deck the Halls" and the old favorite "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" for the Christmas Concert. A beautiful tableau dramatized the Christmas story of the birth of Christ while the choir sang "Silent Night." The two light selections, "Oklahoma" and "The Wiffenpoof Song," were chosen by the members for the Spring Concert.

CONCERT CHOIR

When passing the auditorium during the second period, the professional harmony of the Concert Choir could be heard. It was this select group that helped reveal by their singing the purpose of our choral department. It attempted to give students a better understanding and appreciation of different types of music, and also provided a source of entertainment.

The Concert Choir began work in mid June for the coming school year. It was during this time that new members became acquainted with the original style of harmony used by the choir.

toward reaching the zenith, Concert Choir.

When school opened in the fall, their efforts proved successful with the showing they made at a Junior high assembly. Many civic organizations appreciated the appearances that the Concert Choir made for them. Especially will be remembered the night they helped dedicate the new West End School.

The annual Christmas Concert was a tremendous success. The three numbers that the Concert Choir sang helped to instill the spirit of Christmas in the audience. The choir formed a human Christmas tree holding many illuminated ornaments for the selection "O Christmas Tree." "Jingle Bells Calypso," a new arrangement of the traditional, captured the hearts of the young. They concluded their performance with "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

The impressive arrangement of the "Lord's Prayer" added a religious note to the Spring Concert. A gay mood followed with the ever popular "Tammy." So ended a successful and eventful year for the zenith of the choral department.

Concert Choir tryouts demanded of each participant his utmost concentration. After tryouts each student eagerly awaited the selection of new members.

The combined efforts of the band and choral department gave every individual a lasting sense of pride. Their work provided them with pleasant memories for the future. The band banquet and choir parties culminated the social life of the music department.

Releasing their emotions after the tenseness of the Christmas Concert, Sheila Biego and Jim Stevens let go with a rollicking jitterbug at the choir party.

Magdeline Pogozelec, composer of the Senior class song, portrayed the picture of pride as she capably led the Senior class in her song. The music was based upon the tune "Halls of Ivy."

With a successful marching season behind them, band members presented Mr. Weinstein with a Hi-Fidelity phonograph in appreciation for his tedious work. Presentation took place during the band banquet held at the Elks Hall.

CHEERLEADERS

"Give a cheer, give a cheer for the girls who led the cheers." This vibrant, energetic group was instrumental in encouraging many team victories. Without their display of spirit, Lincoln High would have felt an emptiness. At pep rallies the cheerleaders were always ready to lead the student body in displaying their approval of superior athletics.

Exhibiting new cheers, chants, and dazzling routines, the Varsity Cheerleaders were the epitome of the cheering squads. Through many hours of hard work and practice these lasses strove for perfection. Not satisfied with the tremendous amount of work of perfecting themselves, they also undertook the task of training the future cheerleaders.

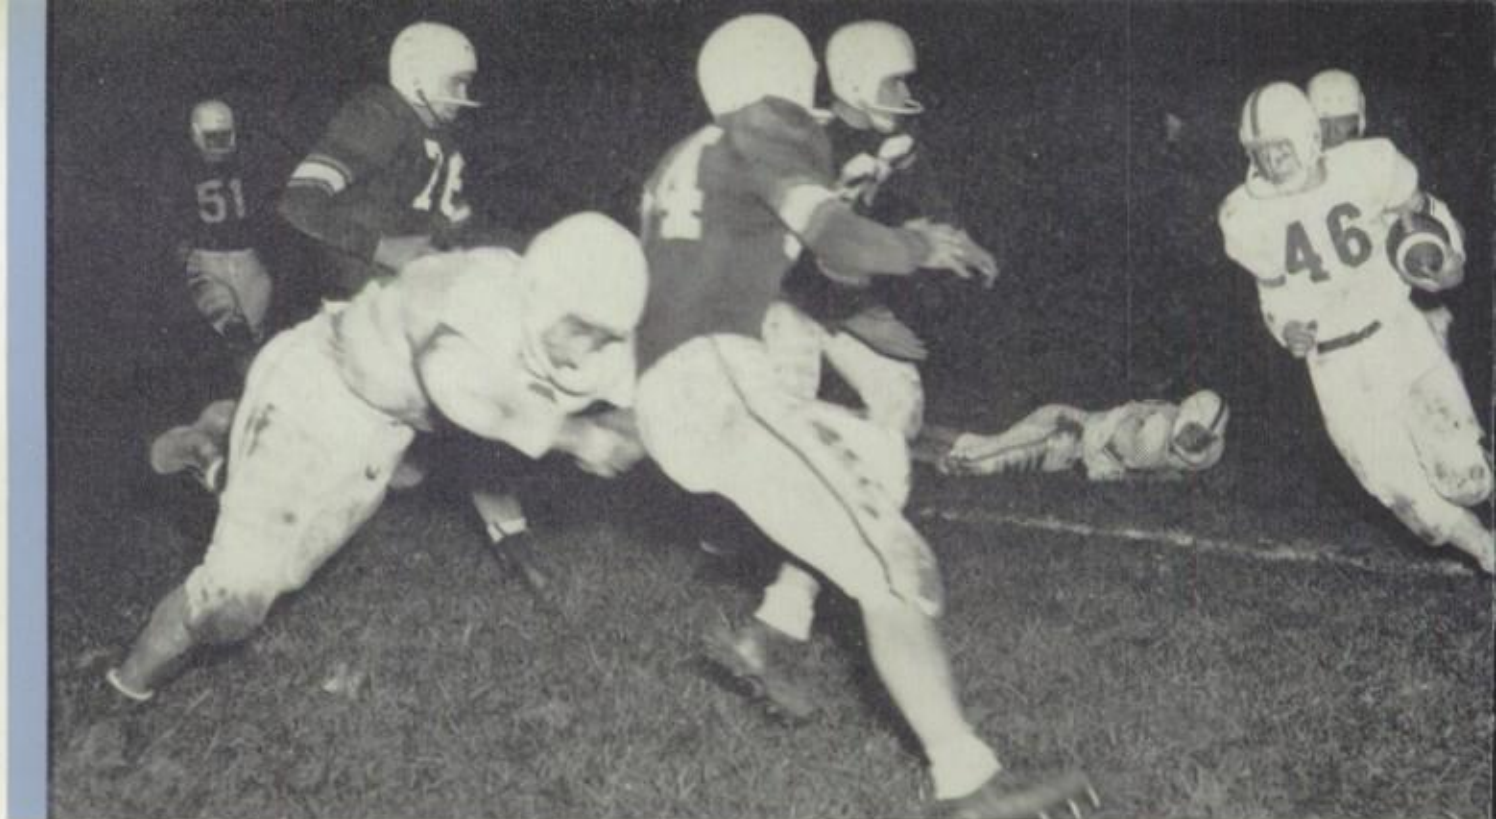

Desirous of someday stepping into the shoes vacated by the Varsity Cheerleaders, the Reserve Cheerleaders worked hard to attain perfection. With pep and vitality they assisted the Varsity Cheerleaders in pep rallies. Not to be forgotten, the Junior High Cheerleaders with their smiles and cheers led the Junior High to victorious seasons in both football and basketball.

After a layoff of two weeks because of the flu epidemic, the Ellwoodians were held scoreless at the hands of a powerful Ambridge team.

The Ellwoodians' determination and fighting spirit paid off with a victory over Beaver Falls in a mud-laden battle at Beaver Falls.

ELLWOOD 6 — NEW CASTLE 6

Winding up the '57 gridiron campaign in honorable fashion, the Wolverines fought arch-rival New Castle to a 6-6 tie.

Due to the flu epidemic, Ellwood was forced to cancel games scheduled with Farrell and Erie Academy and wound up the season with five wins, two losses and one tie.

SENIOR FOOTBALL AWARD WINNERS

The Wolverines' excellent record was influenced by two outstanding athletes, Bob Timmerman and Angelo DeCaro. These fine boys displayed tremendous team spirit and sportsmanship. Timmerman was a vital backfield man. He spearheaded the Ellwood offense, and was a thorn in the opponents' side with his bone-crushing tackles. DeCaro, our fine Senior guard, proved very valuable with his key blocks and tackles in both offense and defense. Both athletes were rewarded for their efforts by receiving trophies presented to them by their fellow teammates.

JUNIOR HIGH FOOTBALL

With competent coaching, the Junior Wolverines turned in a superb season, sporting four wins and one tie. The little Blue and Whites began their season serving host to Beaver Falls, and they registered their first victory of the campaign. The Wolverine Cubs turned to Ambridge for their next battle. With hard running and tackling, they downed the Bridgers.

Rolling up the most points in a single game this season, the Ellwood Gridders routed the George Washington eleven. The Wolverines recorded their fourth straight victory as they soundly trounced Ben Franklin. In their last game, the Cubs encountered undefeated and unscored-upon Butler. With sheer determination, they battled Butler to a stalemate.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

The Wolverine five under the guidance of a competent coach, Mr. Canterna, turned in a satisfying season on the hardwood. Having completed a successful exhibition schedule, Ellwood was ready for league competition.

The Lincoln High team traveled to Farrell for their league opener. Farrell proved too strong for the Wolverines who, despite their desires were subdued. Not letting defeat stop them, the Blue and White five came home to host Ambridge whom they properly trounced in front of the home crowd. Beaver Falls loomed next on the schedule. The Tigers proved stubborn but the Wolves were just too much for them.

The next opponent was Aliquippa. With a fast-breaking offense and rebounding advantages, Ellwood's cagers sent the Indians home unhappy. Going north to Sharon was the Wolverines' next move. The Bengals, showing their superiority, came from behind to hand Canterna's quintet their second league defeat. Arch-rival New Castle then came to the Lincoln gymnasium. Displaying top form, the Wolverines routed their cross-county competitor.

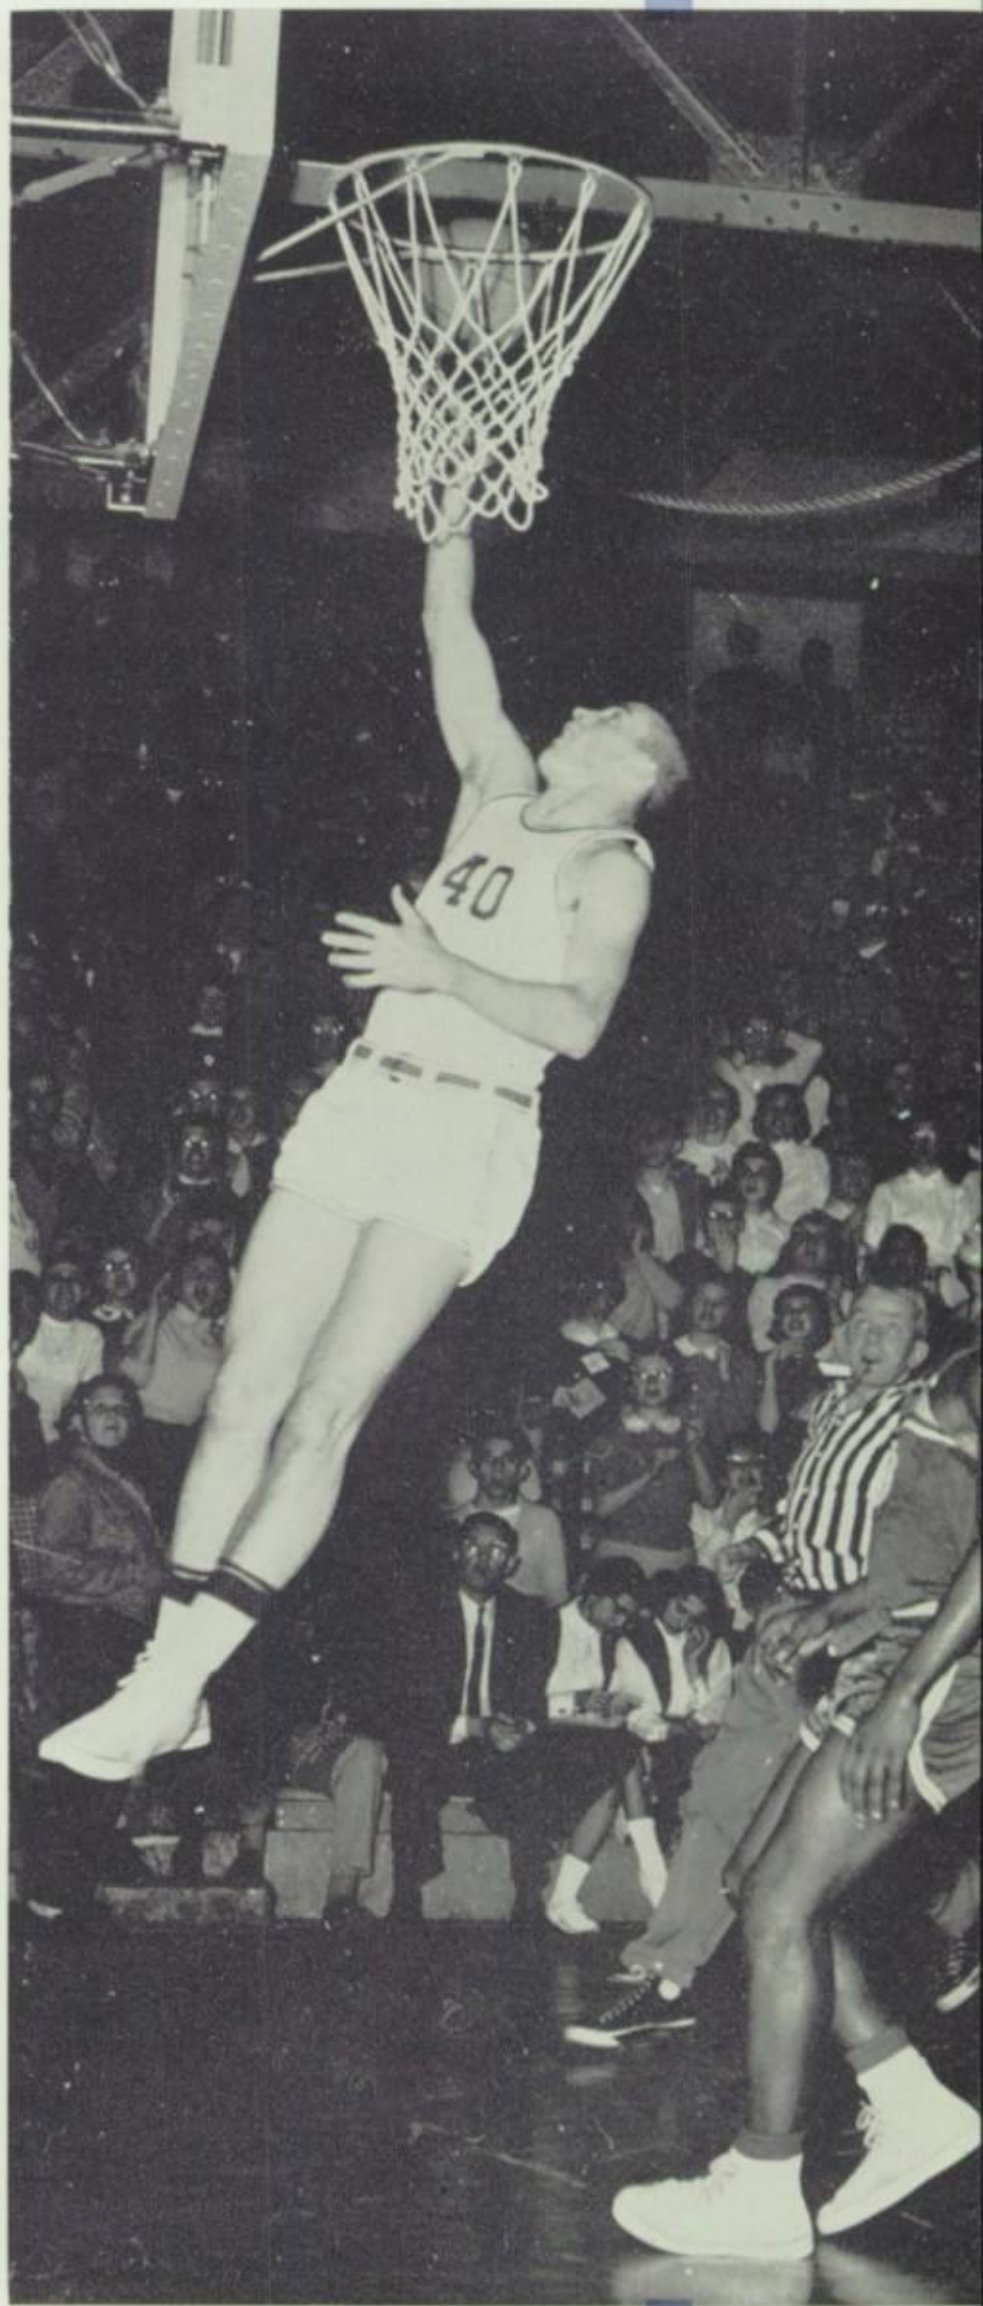

To initiate the second half of league play Farrell was hosted by Ellwood. Although determined to win this nip-and-tuck contest, Ellwood was edged out in the last second. Next stop for the Wolverines was Ambridge. The team sparked back to true form and trounced the Bridgers. Coming back home to host Beaver Falls, the Blue and White were destined to make history, because they proved to be the only Ellwood team to beat the Tigers twice in one season.

The Ellwood five then encountered powerful Aliquippa. Aliquippa's height was too much for the scrappy Wolverines, and they were scalped by the Indians. With an upset in mind, the locals entertained league-leading Sharon. Ellwood fought gamely and valiantly and it wasn't until the last minute that Sharon nosed out the Lincoln Five. Playing in New Castle's new gym for the first time, the Ellwood team suffered a bitter disappointment as they were edged out by three points.

JUNIOR HIGH BASKETBALL

The little Wolverines, guided by Coach Knox, captured the section crown. They posted an almost perfect season with only three losses against fourteen wins.

The Ellwood five, completing a successful exhibition season, began league play with a three and one record behind them. Ambridge became the first victim of the little Wolves, and Monaca tasted defeat at their hands soon afterwards. Aliquippa and Hopewell found the Blue and White still unconquered and joined the ranks of those defeated by Ellwood.

Beaver Falls and Midland also bowed to the Wolves as they closed out the first half without a defeat.

By collecting victories from Ambridge and Monaca, the Lincoln Cagers ran their winning spree to eight games. The Wolverines' streak was snapped at Aliquippa, but Ellwood bounced back from defeat to edge Hopewell. Beaver Falls tripped the Cubs for their second defeat. Coming back strong, Ellwood trounced Midland to capture the section crown.

BASEBALL

For the second straight year, the Wolverines brought the Section VI crown to Lincoln High. Piloted by Mr. Spellman, the fighting Wolves blasted their way to first place honors.

The Ellwood nine turned in a superb exhibition record proving themselves ready for league play. The Wolverines lifted the lid of the season against Beaver Falls. Joe Raman twirled a superb game, not letting the Tigers score while his teammates collected four tallies from the Beaver Falls pitchers. Rochester popped up next on Ellwood's schedule. They gave only stubborn resistance as the Wolves squeezed by.

Aliquippa was next to encounter the deadly pitches of Joe Raman. The ace hurler recorded his second shutout as the Wolverine "victory wagon" rolled on its merry way. Ron Hughes threw another shutout against Ambridge, while his slugging mates rapped the Ambridge pitching staff for eleven big runs. The Blue and White's next game was with the Beaver Falls Tigers. The Ellwood nine played fine defensive ball as they recorded their fifth straight victory.

The firing side-arm deliveries of Ron Hughes stunned the Rochester Rams. The Ellwood runners crossed home plate thirteen times for the highest single game score. Ellwood's six game winning streak came to an abrupt end at hands of a fine Aliquippa team. This was the only league game where the Blue and White were held scoreless. Casting defeat aside, the Wolverines subdued Ambridge to clinch the championship and finish league competition.

TRACK

Lincoln High's thinclads posted its best season in eight years. The Wolverine trackmen broke four local school records. Two of them were broken by star-miler John Buner. The swift trackster ran the mile in 4:41 minutes and the 880 yard run in 2:09.8 minutes. Percy Kirklin, key trackman, broke the 120 yard high hurdles record in a time of 15.5 seconds, and Frank Poholsky established a new 440 yard record posting the time of 55.9 seconds.

Starting off the season at Farrell, Ellwood suffered a 87-31 set back. Not discouraged by defeat, the Wolverines showed their heels to Monaca 70-25. Continuing their winning streak, the thinclads edged Beaver 64 $\frac{1}{3}$ -55 $\frac{2}{3}$.

In the Beaver County Meet, the Ellwood team placed fourth with Percy Kirklin and John Buner teaming up to cop three first places. Ellwood placed fifth in Western Pennsylvania Regionals at Slippery Rock, then closed the season with a 74-39 victory over Hopewell.

CLASSES

Reflecting past

Following the laudable "December Bride" of their Junior year, the Seniors won acclaim with their class play, "Three Blind Mice." A donkey basketball game, a fund-raising project for the Senior treasury, was played between Senior boys, high school coaches, and local Jaycees. The year terminated with the traditional assembly, dinner, Baccalaureate, and Commencement exercises.

CLASS SPONSOR

The Seniors felt that the class sponsor, Mr. Victor Brown, with his ever-present good nature, contributed to the attainment of their goals. The entire class appreciated him for his optimism and support. As sponsor, Mr. Brown reflected the co-operation between Seniors and faculty.

CLASS OFFICERS

SENIOR CLASS

With three successful years to their credit, the Class of 1958 was well prepared for responsibility. The year began with a record-breaking magazine sale. The profits from the total sales of $13,242.22 were used in the production of the 1958 Ellwoodian.

Careful planning and arranging were synonymous with Senior activities. After an eventful convention, class officers and a cabinet were selected. They then formulated future Senior activities. One result of this action was the choice of the second annual Homecoming Queen and Court. The male members competently nominated seven Senior girls to the court.

In the latter part of the school year, several Senior activities came into play. Lincoln High viewed the proceedings of Senior Day with expectant wonder. March 12 proved to be a day of hilarity as each Senior homeroom tried to outdo the others with the chosen theme, song titles. Room 304 with their interpretation of "Sayonara" won first place.

Carnival time! Senior time! Festivity reigned in the gym where each Senior homeroom had erected a booth. The strolling violin player (Mr Brown), the auction of faculty "white elephants," and a hypnotism show heightened the already merry spirits. The carnival was generally considered another successful Senior enterprise.

JUNIOR CLASS

"Nothing succeeds like success" was the motto that best reflected the Junior Class. This group completed a variety of projects under the sponsorship of Mr. Donald Taylor. The class treasury overflowed because of the co-operation and class spirit of everyone during the Christmas candy sale. Hoping to sell about five pounds of candy per member, they ended the campaign with a fabulous ten pounds per member average. The winners were recognized at a special Christmas party at which they received useful gifts as well as a box of candy.

A hockey team under the auspices of Bob Fosnaught demonstrated their athletic skills in Junior-Senior hockey games. Although the Seniors were victorious in both games, the Juniors supported their team diligently.

The class play, "Onions in the Stew," proved to be a tremendous success. The competent dramatists displayed exceptional talent in this amusing play. A cast party followed in the gym at which everyone thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Attempting a difficult project, this class planned to produce a technicolor film depicting their accomplishments during their final two years. This was under the supervision of Dave Smith, class president.

The month of April was highlighted by the Junior Class dinner dance. Each member was permitted to bring a guest to the gala affair.

The main event of the 1957-58 social season was the Junior-Senior Prom, "Tropical Interlude." The beautifully transformed gym depicted a romantic tropical isle. Palm trees and other equatorial plants enhanced the appearance of the gymnasium. An illuminated waterfall was the center of attraction. Colored lights playing on the falling water created a picturesque scene. Thus, the Junior Class ended a prosperous and successful year.

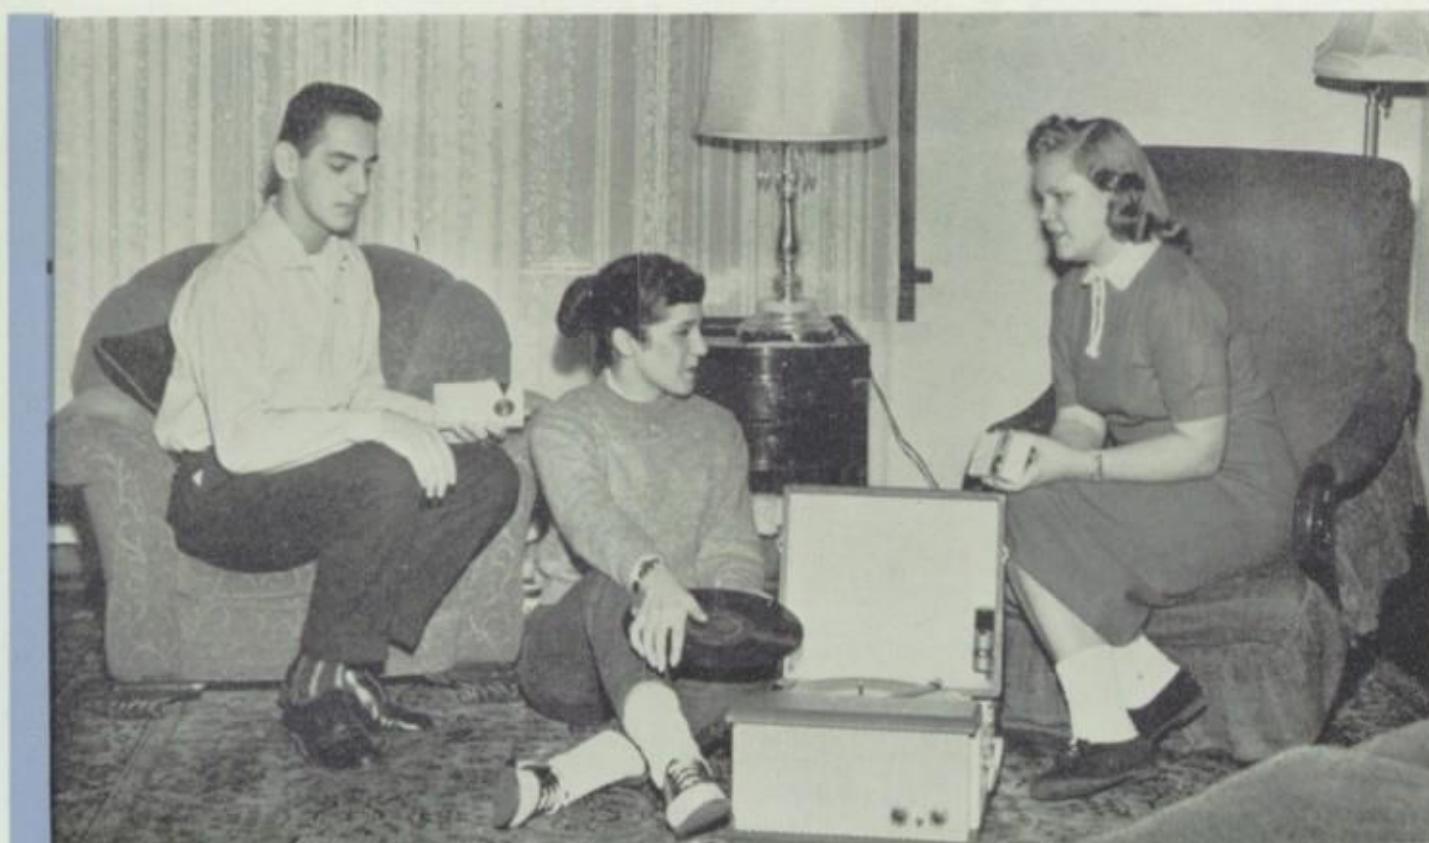

Although the Seniors were victorious, zealous Junior girls exuberantly tried to bolster the morale of their hockey team. The scene of the "great contest" occurred in midwinter at Bates Lake.

Class of 1960

The first year in senior high assemblies, pep meetings, varsity teams, and upper class clubs was a wonderful experience for the Sophomores. Although they were not organized as a class, they sponsored a semi-formal dance in March which they called, "A Night to Remember."

Sophomores were leaders in organizing the new Latin Club. As a part of the guidance program of the school, the members of this class who were making preparations for further education after graduation were organized into a college-preparatory club.

The Freshman Class

The Freshman Class of 1958 had an outstanding list of accomplishments that might well be a worthy goal for future Freshmen. They excelled in the field of athletics as both their football and basketball teams won section titles. The Freshmen were not to be outdone in social events as they conducted a dance under the heading of "Winter Wonderland." It was well organized and successfully carried out. Of prime importance, however, was the scholastic ability displayed by the Freshmen. Evidence of this was the large number of Freshmen who made the honor rolls during the year.

Reflecting their faculty and fellow classmates' choice as outstanding students, Rosemary Abraham and William H. Markus were recipients of the 1957 American Legion Award.

CONCLUDING OUR REFLECTIONS

As we received the symbolic caps and gowns, we met the realization that this memorable Senior year was swiftly coming to a close. The entire school seemed to reflect our impending departure. Clubs chose new officers, band and choirs replaced Senior members, coaches made plans for new varsity teams, and the faculty devised improved courses and equipment. For some, graduation would mark the end of their formal schooling. Others eagerly awaited the step to higher education, but everyone felt the experiences of these years could never be recaptured.

Beginning with Room 301-B, Mr. Shaffer fitted us in the traditional caps and gowns as the final class events approached.

Sunday

Our senior year is Linda, almost over and a summer full of fun and some work. I know we will lots of fun, more than last year. This year sure has been a busy year. You and But sure are anxious to hook one a boy. I don't know what I would do without you.

I am looking forward towards a year of lots of fun, swimming, movies, trips over town and all the other little bright ideas we get.

I'm sure our mothers must hate us sometimes but that don't stop us either.

I sure hope that we have a lot of fun in our senior year. I also hope we have an easier year and more time for each other.

I'm sure we will never forget our little discussions

Will lots of luck to you & Dick, hope your troubles are few and all them small small ones (if that's possible).
God Bless You.

I love
you
Nancy

To the sweetest bookkeeper
I ever had. I wish to gratefully acknowledge my sincere appreciation to you and to Lincoln High School for giving you the ability to keep in order all records & accounts and for your diligent interest in my business.

Without your love, devotion and patient understanding I could not have made even a partial success of my venture. A man better loves, better appreciates and strives harder to please the woman that not only loves, but also takes a devoted and genuine interest in her man, his joys and his aspirations.

Linda you are that woman

With all my love
Dick

Linda,

Best of luck to one of my very best friends.
Never forget the fun
we had in all our school years. (especially on the hill) Stay as sweet as you are and you'll go far.

Love Always
Patty

Linda,
Just a word to a cute and wonderful girl. May you succeed in everything you do.
Love
Gina
